WEATHER—Fair tonight; Wednesday increased cloudiness.

The New York legislature is beginning to speak to Governor Hughes as he passes by.

The man who is to marry May Irwin is to undertake a large contract.

The Czar has dissolved Douma because the Douma was planning to dissolve the Czar.

If that hobo feast at Chicago has not given the Newport people a new idea, they are certainly not awake to their opportunities.

Japan has gone and cornered the camphor market right here when we are in the midst of packing away the winter clothes.

There are 2,000 professional baseball players in this country and about 1,800 of them play like rank amateurs.

Pittsburg bank clerks are demanding rubber gloves to wear when handling money. Is Pittsburg money so badly tainted as all that?

The royal baby in Spain will remain for some years in ignorance of the fact that he has enough names to start a city directory.

The Bureau of corporations gravely and solemnly avers the Standard Oil company "defies the law." This confirms our dark suspicions.

It is indeed a fortunate thing that the international peace conference is not meeting in a Central American city.

Dissatisfaction with conditions seems to have struck all classes of laborers. Strikes are becoming prevalent despite the reports of unparalleled prosperity.

Mr. Taft is hooked for ten speeches in eleven days. If he does not care to touch on politics in them, he will find that the weather is always a good topic this year.

The New York Herald claims that there are 198,000 young widows in that city. This suggests a revival of the old play "The Perils of New York."

"Abe" Ruef says his conscience "hurt" him. It was doubtless quite a shock to his nervous system to discover that he had a conscience.

The fact that Foraker as governor once appointed Taft to a judgeship in Cincinnati, does not exercise the slightest mollifying influence on the situation in Ohio.

Vice-president is a lover of amateur theatricals, says an Indiana contemporary. If that be so, he must take positive delight in presiding over some sessions of the United States Senate.

Great Britain, France, and Spain have entered into an alliance to protect their possessions in the east Atlantic and Mediterranean seas. This information will probably cause a stir in Germany.

at The Hague does not argue well for peace even while the conference is in session.

Mexico is dickering for the purchase of four fighting crafts. When the Central American states begin to buy war vessels, there will be grounds for hoping for peace down there.

It is reported that a citizen of Washington has been "tapping" the government's wireless messages. If the President's opinion of Foraker were to be put on the wireless, the wire tapper's plant would probably be burned out.

Baron Kaneko, who figured in the peace negotiations between Japan and Russia, at Portsmouth is said to be slated to succeed Viscount Aoki, the Japanese Ambassador to the United States. Japan probably figures that Kaneko would not make so much fuss over a broken window glass.

The excitement in Japan is caused by the fight between the political parties there and the outs are using the California dispute about the Japanese to excite the voters there to "turn the rascals out." There will be no war. This tempest in a teapot is much ado about nothing. If the Japanese do not like their treatment in California, or Americans feel aggrieved at their treatment in Japan, they should keep at home, at all events until the excitement subsides.

OUR ICONOCLASTIC PRESIDENT.

One important Memorial Day address has been somewhat overlooked in which Lieut. Gov. Sherman of Illinois pointedly attacked some of President Roosevelt's policies and especially his attempt to dictate to Congress and overthrow States Rights and Home Rule. "The crying lawlessness of the age," said Gov. Sherman, "is the gradual weakening of the legislative branch of the government. We need not denounce the cause. We deplore the fact. The cause may be the personality of its members. It may be the insidious attacks of the executive from time to time. The legislature originally was the strongest and most representative. It is so no longer.

"The State governments are powerful agencies to train the citizen to an appreciation and understanding of civil duties, either in State or general government. The State cannot be reduced to a mere outlying Federal province, dependent upon the general government for its general local welfare."

Such advice from a Republican official shows that there is a deep under current swirling to the surface for the Democratic policy of the freedom of the Representatives of the people from Executive dictation and the resuscitation of the reserved rights of the states and Home rule.

The Republican protest against "insidious attacks of the executive and the usurpation of those in power, drunk with the lust of official might, as Gov. Sherman puts it, is a much more caustic criticism of the acts of President Roosevelt than has come from any Democrat. politically it is very important as Gov. Sherman is a close friend of Speaker Cannon and would hardly have made this attack without his counsel or his consent. The old school Lincoln Republicans are evidently combined to prevent the dictation of their present strenuous but erratic chief.

Democrats have long viewed with alarm the iconoclastic policies that have been fostered by the Roosevelt faction of the Republican party; that in the name of reform is attempting to tear down the constitutional edifice reared by the father of the Republic without even insuring a solid foundation for the centralization they plan in its place.

While President Roosevelt is given full credit for his adoption of some Democratic policies, it is feared that the effect of his Hamiltonian false doctrines will bring disaster. The fact is that President Roosevelt is an opportunist ready to grasp at any bubble that rises to the surface of the political pond that he thinks will aid Roosevelt renown.

SENATOR JOHN W. DANIEL.

One of the Democrats mentioned as presidential possibilities is John W. Daniel, senior senator from Virginia. Senator Daniel is a statesman of the old school. He resembles the senators of the Clay and Calhoun period more than the men of today. He was born in Lynchburg, Va., where he still resides, in 1842. He served in the Confederate army through the civil war, being adjutant general on the staff of General Jubel A. Early. The senator has had a long experience in congress and is an able orator.

ACKERMAN WINS POINT

In His Suit Against the C. D. & M. Road.

SNYDER LEAVES MARION

To Enter Upon His Reformatory Sentence.

Judge Babst Renders a Number of Important Decisions in the Common Pleas Court.

George Ackerman, proprietor of the Ackerman hotel, has a right to prevent the Marion Railway Light & Power company from placing a pole in the street in front of his place of business on North State street. That is what Judge Babst of the court of common pleas decided Tuesday morning. The company sought to have an injunction granted, restraining Ackerman from interfering with the putting up of the pole, and the judge decided that no injunction could be given.

He stated that this company's only means of getting up the pole would be to have the space necessary for the polehole condemned through an appropriation proceeding and then set the damages with Ackerman.

The suit was begun in the court of common pleas by the street railway company, Tuesday morning, and the defendant filed a demurrer. Judge Babst sustained the demurrer.

The suit of Emma O. Gamble against William M. Jackson and others was decided in favor of the plaintiff by Judge Babst of the court of common pleas, Tuesday. Mrs. Gamble sued to vacate a judgment which Jackson has secured on a promissory note. Mrs. Gamble had given the note while securing life insurance through Jackson. She claimed that Jackson misrepresented matters so that when she signed the note, she thought it was merely an application for insurance.

Following the decision, Jackson gave notice of an appeal to the circuit court and his bond was placed at $50.

Judge Babst Tuesday morning sustained the motion to have matter stricken from the petition in the suit of Gottlieb Kohberger against the Big Four Railway company. Leave has been given to file an amended petition by July 20.

After rendering his decisions here, Tuesday, Judge Babst went to Marysville to relieve Judge Young, who will go to Bucyrus to hold court. There will be no court here during the remainder of the week.

Sheriff Drown went to Mansfield Tuesday with Clarence C. Snyder, the young man who was sentenced to the reformatory by Judge Young, last week. The local attorneys who interested themselves in Snyder's case because of his prepossessing appearance think that he will be paroled in a year at the least. Judge Young, in sentencing the young man, agreed to sign an application for a parole in case Snyder makes a well behaved prisoner.

When the $5000 damage suit of Alfred B. Russell, an Indianapolis traveling man, against the C. D. & M. Electric Railway company, was started several days ago a mistake was made which has necessitated filing a new petition. The petition called the defendant a "railroad" company instead of a "railway" company. Judge Babst Tuesday gave the plaintiff permission leave to withdraw his petition from the files.

The motion to set aside a sale of property, filed in the suit of Amos H. Kling and others against Martha A. Cunningham, was sustained by Judge Babst. Leave has been given the defendant to answer by July 30.

In the damage suit of Louisa Childers against the Erie Railroad company, the motion to have certain charges stricken from the petition has been sustained.

In the damage suit of Joseph J. Anthony against James H. Harnett, the motion to strike a petition from the files was sustained Tuesday.

The demurrer to the petition filed in the suit of Clifford Fling against D. Diller was sustained by Judge Babst, Tuesday morning.

Railroad Notes

Yesterday the Hocking Valley railway notified all shippers of lake coal that beginning July 1st the storage allotted to the different companies for lake coal shipments would be terminated as the car service rules covering lake coal shipments would take effect on that date. These rules provide for seven days free time and also for an average of demurrage.

After July 1st, the storage will be in the hands of the coal companies to regulate their shipment so as to avoid payment of car service, although the railroad reserves the right to regulate shipments from the mines "conditions warrant it in so doing."

The Erie carpenter force from Gallon under foreman Calmarry arrived in the city and began the work of repairing the elevator shaft at the Erie ice plant. The force will be engaged about the local yards several days in making various needed repairs in the carpenter line.

The engine of Erie passenger train No. 14 ran into a derail switch west of the union depot yesterday evening, derailing it and damaging the tracks. The accident caused a slight delay of the train.

BADLY BURNED

Powder Explodes Injuring Master Bert Harger.

While playing with powder at Seafield Heights, about 3 o'clock, Monday afternoon, Bert Harger, the 14 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Harger of Grand avenue, had his face and right hand badly burned by an unexpected explosion. After being burned the boy pluckily walked to his home, more than a half mile away, where Dr. J. W. Adair was called to render surgical aid. None of the powder entered the flesh and the boy will not be disfigured.

The Two Step club will have their opening dance tonight in Sawney's new pavilion.
